makes plans for its meeting line up that runs from October to March. The focus this cycle is fisheries at Prince William Sound, Southeast, hatcheries and statewide shellfish. “Anyone who has attended knows these are intensely public meetings and big gatherings,” said Glenn Haight, boards support director. “You’ll spend anywhere from two days to two weeks talking up close with people and sitting next to each other. And as we look at what mitigation measures are happening for other events, we’re just starting to wonder what we need to put in place if we are going to have in person meetings. Or do we need to go to a virtual platform? And if so, how would we best be able to do so? We want to ask the public what their concerns are, and get some good ideas from folks.”

Would an online fish board meeting that takes public testimony over the phone be adequate? Could moderated discussions be opened to a large audience? How can rural people dealing with limited bandwidth join the conversations? The meetings could be rescheduled, Haight said, but it’s uncertain when the COVID-19 coast will be clear. For now, the Fish Board hopes to make plans with the public’s help. “Not to beat up pandemic metaphors, but we’re taking the public’s temperature here,” Haight said. “And we’re going to find out what people are concerned about, what they’re interested in and what they want the board to consider.”

Trooper Beat

On July 20, 2020 at approximately 12:36 a.m., Alaska State Troopers responded to a residence located on W. Peninsula Dr. in Wasilla for a reported burglary/assault. Investigation revealed Carrie Komonseak, 32 of Nome, forced entry into the locked house. When confronted, Komonseak assaulted the homeowner. Komonseak was placed under arrest for Burglary in the first degree and Assault in the fourth degree. Komonseak was transported to Mat-Su Pretrial and remanded with no bail.

On July 23, 2020 at 5:45 a.m., Troopers received a report of an assault in Stebbins. Troopers responded and investigation revealed 41-year-old Pamela Pete had caused physical injury to a family member, violated her felony probation conditions, and barricaded herself in her residence. A search warrant was obtained to gain access to the residence and Pamela was arrested for Assault fourth Degree (DV) and PTRP. She was transported to AMCC where she is held without bail pending arraignment.

On July 23, 2020 at 1:40 p.m., Troopers arrested Lance Thomas, 22, of Nome, on a $1,500 felony warrant for Assault 3 and PTRP technical violation x2. Thomas was transported to AMCC.

On July 25, 2020 at 1:10 a.m., Alaska State Troopers received a report that a seven-year-old male in Stebbins had been involved in a vehicle vs. pedestrian collision with a dirt bike and was being treated at the Stebbins clinic for life-threatening injuries. The child was pronounced deceased several hours later as a result of his injuries. Neither alcohol nor controlled substances appear to be a factor. No foul play is suspected and next of kin have been notified. Troopers responded to the village and investigation is ongoing. The body has been sent to the State Medical Examiner’s office for autopsy to confirm cause of death.

Comments on Governor Dunleavy's appointments of Abe Williams of Anchorage, McKenzie Mitchell of Fairbanks and John Jensen of Petersburg (reappointment) to the Board of Fisheries can be sent to Representative Louise Stutes (R-Kodiak) at

Rep.louise.stutes@akleg.gov/

Normally, the Alaska legislature would put appointees through a vigorous vetting process with public input, but COVID-19 sent them home early from the last session. Stutes has scheduled a hearing with public testimony for September 3 starting at 10 a.m. at the Anchorage Legislative Information Office.

Fish feeds soaring demand

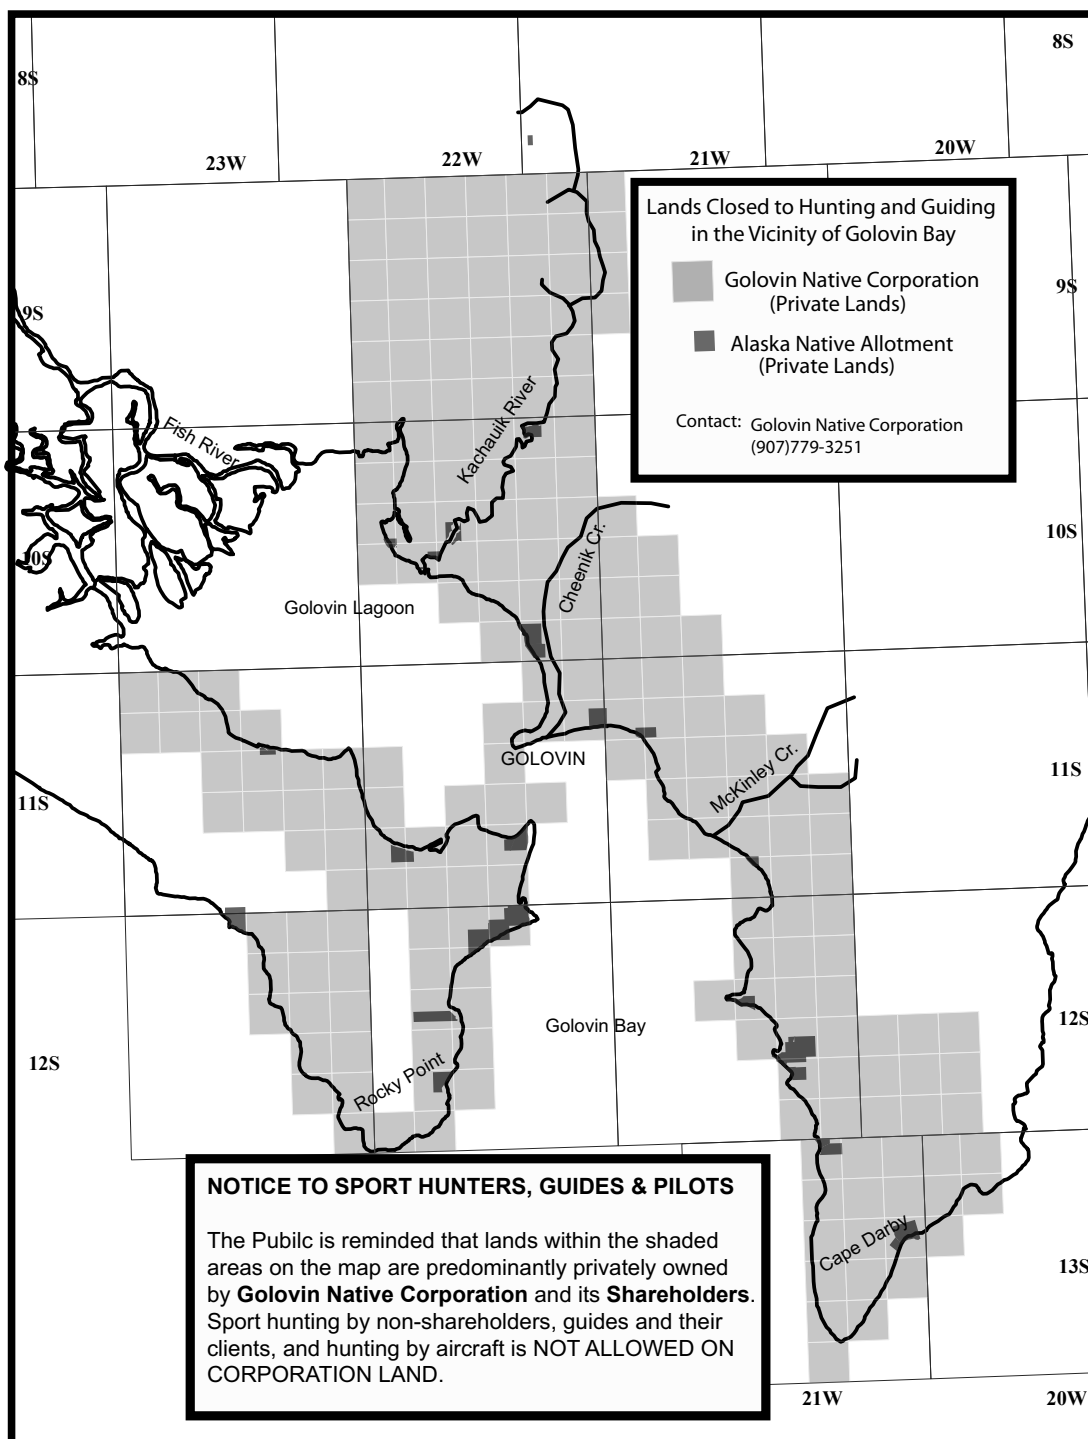

Salmon and halibut taken as bycatch by Bering Sea and Gulf of Alaska trawlers will continue to feed the less fortunate. Federal permits were renewed for the nonprofit to take the fish that by law must be discarded and instead distribute it to the nation's food banks. "We resubmit our application every three years to be authorized, along with a new list of boats and shore plants and food banks," said Jim Harmon, SeaShare executive director. "We've generated over six and a half million pounds in the last 25 years and that equates to 26 million servings of fish that would otherwise have been thrown overboard."

The bycatch to food banks program began 25 years ago in the Bering Sea and expanded to the Gulf a decade later. It now includes 136 boats, 12 shoreside processors, 34 catcher processors and three mother-ships. Harmon said longstanding partnerships help get the goods from the docks to needy Americans. "The donations that the fishermen and processors make enable us to bring in other donations of freight, cold storage, packaging, processing, and they wouldn't be able to donate those things if we didn't have the fish," he said. The Sea Share program has expanded nationwide to accept a wide variety of fish products, but a good share of the fish caught in the Gulf goes to Alaskans. "We purchased freezers five years ago and put them in regional hubs, allowing us to distribute to remote communities. So thanks to Juneau, St. Paul, Kodiak, Bethel and Dillingham, we're able to serve 34 other smaller communities that weren't getting our fish five years ago," Harmon said, adding that the Coast Guard also delivers fish to Nome every year and Matson and AML shipping partnered to purchase and deliver a 20 foot replacement freezer to Dillingham last week.

Harmon said the millions of lost jobs stemming from the Covid pandemic has pushed up demand at food banks. "The clients that go to food banks have doubled this year. I believe 22 percent of Americans are accessing food banks and that's unprecedented," Harmon said. "We've distributed over 5 million servings in the first six months but now we're trying to find out where the next millions of servings are going to come from. So if you have something to give, whether it's seafood or dollars or services, please donate at www.seashare.org and we'll make sure that your donation is maximized to the fullest extent possible."
